In Court: Keith Marquar files suit against BSL and former councilman

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

A Hancock County man last week filed a federal lawsuit against the city of Bay St. Louis, claiming a former city councilman used his position to damage the man's business.

Gulfport attorney Patrick W. Kirby filed the suit in federal court on Friday on behalf of Keith Marquar and L&L Marine Construction, LLC. The defendants are former Bay Councilman Lonnie Falgout, Mayor Mike Favre – both of whom are named individually and in their official capacities as city officials -- and the city of Bay St. Louis. L&L Marine Construction and Marquar first filed a notice of claim in the case in March 2017, the first step before filing the federal complaint. According to the suit, Wayne McCants hired Marquar and

Mayor Mike Favre
L&L Construction to build a bulkhead and pier at 144 Elaine Dr. and that then-Ward 6 Councilman Lonnie Falgout, who owns the adjacent property at 146 Elaine Dr., opposed the project and filed objections with the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources and Army Corps of Engineers to halt it.

"When these efforts failed, Mr. Falgout changed tactics," according to the suit. "Initially, he invited Mr. Marquar to lunch and tired to strong-arm (him) into abandoning the project. Mr. Marquar refused to be intimidated, informing Falgout that he would continue. Lonnie Falgout became angry and threatened that he would use his position as city councilman to

GOMESA: Hancock County to receive funds from U.S. Department of Interior

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

Hancock County is set to receive a portion of almost $188 million from the U.S. Department of the Interior for "coastal conservation, restoration and hurricane protection projects."

Last week, the U.S. Secretary of the Interior Ryan Zinke announced that the Department will disburse funds to the four Gulf oil and gas producing states – Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas and their coastal political subdivisions, a release from the U.S. Department of the Interior states.

This is the first disbursement under

Phase II of the Gulf of Mexico Energy Security Act of 2006 (GOMESA). Funds are obtained from "qualified oil and gas leasing revenues on the Outer Continental Shelf and disbursed in accordance with the revenue-sharing provisions of the GOMESA legislation," the release states.

"Under President Trump's America-First energy strategy, we've increased energy revenue by a billion dollars nationally in the first year alone, which creates more funding for important conservation projects in the Gulf," Zinke said in the release. "Offshore energy production means less oil needed from foreign coun-

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

Sugar powers all, but can be your enemy

What a marvel of nature! It is most interesting and fascinating that, since all living things need energy for locomotion, growth and healing, nature has fulfilled this need by enabling all living things to run on sugar in the form of glucose. All plants, all animals and all of us humans are powered by glucose, the most renewable and perhaps the cleanest and most efficient form of energy. In spite of the fact that we consume proteins and other nutrients to have a balanced diet, all these nutrients must be broken down into glucose before our body cells can use them.

However, a huge caveat is hidden in this very curious fact about breaking down proteins and other nutrients into glucose to supply energy for our bodies to operate. We can bypass this breaking down process by using sugarcane or sugar beets processed into sugar (first boiling), syrup (second boiling), molasses (the residue after no more sugar can be crystallized from the boiling), or similar products like corn syrup. But beware! This bypass comes only at your own peril.

Designed to supply their own sugar by breaking down proteins and other nutrients, our bodies work well and free of disease as long as we allow them to do their work. But, if we use much sugar, syrup or molasses in our drinks and foods, we are telling our pancreas, "You don't have to produce insulin to regulate the amount of glucose in my blood. See, I have the sugar/syrup that is doing the job." Very obediently, the pancreas stops working. No more insulin. That is type 2 diabetes.

So, does this mean that most folks, especially borderline diabetics and diabetics should stay away from sugar- or syrup-based desserts? The shorter answer is that they would be wise healthwise to avoid all such desserts. But what a wet blanket that is! The longer answer is, "Everything in moderation." A little poison won't wreck your health. But, if you are borderline or flat-out diabetic, you would do best to avoid completely all sugars, syrups and molasses. Avoid anything refined.

Run away from anything processed! If the label on the product says "processed" or "refined," return it to the shelf with no further questions. Hidden sugars in things like corn syrup added to many processed foods, even meats, are dirty stealth fighters sneaking furtively into and devastating our bodies.

Calories and sugar are convertible. Hence, alcohol is a poison for diabetics, since it is rich in calories. I have witnessed a number of diabetics undergo the loss

Fort Henry at Henderson's Point

Hidden in illusive books are found little snippets of past history events of Pass Christian. The following was written by the first general manager of the famed Mexican Gulf Hotel which opened its doors on June 16, 1883, and was destroyed by fire on January 8, 1917. The grand hotel was located at Davis and Beach avenues in downtown Pass Christian. Matthew Crawford described the following events regarding the origins of Fort Henry.

General Sam Heaslip and Captain John Lang, also members of our "Club," were two of our most distinguished citizens. The General was Mayor of the town, extensively engaged in the sugar business in New Orleans and full of public spirit. John Lang was the major-domo of the town. He kept a livery stable, an express stable, he was undertaker, a real estate agent, a good deal of a politician, and a worthy citizen.

The War Department had determined to erect sea coast batteries along the Gulf Coast to any towns that they might select as advantageous. The offer was contingent on the community furnishing the land to equip and build the fortification. At a special meeting of the "Club," this matter was taken up and it was enthusiastically resolved that, we, as members of this club, would compete with neighboring towns for the honor of possessing a fortification all our own. A subscription list was started — and in a short time the amount necessary to purchase a tract of ground was raised. Henderson's Point at the extreme end of the village, was the place selected. 1205 feet of Gulf front property was established as Fort Henry. Word came from Washington that the Department had decided to accept our proposition and the necessary work was at once begun.

Major Rockwell an engineer of the army, shortly arrived and then we all got busy. A day was set for the inauguration of this colossal enterprise, the armament consisted of one old smooth, bore cannon that had probably seen service during the War of the Revolution. One of the militiamen remarked that "it was a sure enough cannon all right, although we never tested it for fear of its bursting and thereby causing us untold anguish, for we knew that the government would never replace it."

The fort was named in honor of Adjutant General William H. Henry of Brandon, Mississippi, a descendant of Patrick Henry, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The Fort was constructed of clay with timber re-enforcement. It was equipped with 8-inch mortars backed up by two 10-inch Napoleon revolving cannons which were hauled in by eight-wheel log wagons.

Everything being ready the War Department ordered the regular troops stationed at New Orleans to attend the opening ceremonies. The famous Washington Artillery was sent by the State of Louisiana, as also Benham's Field Battery. Several militia companies from up the State were sent and when they arrived the town went crazy. The Washington Artillery brought with them the then famous Mexican band of sixty pieces: the regulars had a fine one also, and these, with the martial music of the fife and drums, enthused the crowds.

The Mexican Gulf Hotel did its share to heighten the festivities. A Grand Ball was given in the house and a "fete champetre" with fire works was held on the lawn in front.

There never was before, nor, I believe since, seen so much patriotism, so much military splendor, and so much jollity as reigned in Pass Christian during the

Consider many reasons to teach a child to fish

Fishing is fun, it can make lasting memories, and passing the sport to friends and family is rewarding in many tangible and intangible ways.

There really is no better way to bond as a family than to go fishing together. Watching children land their first fish is a deeply personal experience. Perhaps most importantly, teaching others to fish is important for the future of fish conservation.

Fishing has been one of the most popular outdoor recreational activities in the United States for many decades, but fishing participation in recent decades has stagnated or declined in many regions. Only about 14 percent of the public fishes today. There is real danger in this decline.

Fishing is good for local economies. In 2016, 35.8 million people spent $46.1 billion on equipment, licenses, trips and other fishing-related items or activities. Fishing expenditures represent a significant financial windfall for local and state economies, but as fishing declines, the communities that depend on angling revenues will suffer.

Anglers are responsible for a majority of the funding for fish conservation and aquatic habitat restoration. Direct fish conservation funding to support state fish and game agencies primarily comes from the sale of fishing licenses and excise taxes collected on fishing-related expenditures under the Federal Aid in Sport Fish Restoration Program. This funding represents nearly the entire management budget for many agencies, paying for everything from biologists' salaries to boat maintenance to hatchery production and fish stocking.

Funding appropriations from the Federal Aid Program to each state are based, in part, on the number of anglers who buy fishing licenses in each state. Therefore, as the number of licensed anglers declines, states lose the direct revenue from license sales, and they lose funding allocated from the Federal Aid Program.

The reason is twofold. First, a reduction in license sales in a state means a lower proportion of the total funds, so the state gets a smaller piece of the pie. Second, fewer anglers buying gear means fewer tax dollars are collected, so the pie gets smaller overall. Declining numbers of fishers is bad news for conservation of our public fisheries resources.

Another important factor is that fish management agencies depend on anglers for political and social support. Most people support the right to hunt and fish, even if they don't partici-

Hancock Chamber calls for nominations for outstanding citizens and businesses

SEA COAST ECHO

The Hancock Chamber of Commerce is calling for the community to submit nominations for outstanding citizens and businesses to be recognized during the 41st Annual Hancock Business & Industry Awards Gala. Known as the local version of the Academy Awards, the Gala will be held on Thursday, August 23 at Hollywood Casino Gulf Coast. The festive event starts with a 5:30pm networking reception, followed by a formal dinner with entertaining video presentations featuring the award winners. The Industrial Award of Excellence will also be presented by the Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission.

The deadline to submit nominations for outstanding citizens and businesses is Friday, May 18, 2018, 5pm, CT. To learn more, go to hancockchamber.org and submit your nominations.

To nominate someone as an outstanding citizen or business owner, he or she must have a record of making a positive impact on the community. Anyone may nominate one or more individuals and business owners to be considered for these awards and those being considered must be current members of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce in good standing. All nominees will be considered if they have not yet been recognized before. Those who are not yet members of the Chamber will be invited to join. Individuals may join for only $85 per year and annual business investment memberships start at $225. To find a list of previous honorees go to hancockchamber.org. (Elected officials are ineligible for nomination as Outstanding Citizens.)

The top ten qualified nominees for Outstanding Citizens will be presented to the Hancock Chamber of Commerce membership who will vote on the Citizen of the Year. The individual who is elected as Citizen of the Year will be kept confidential until it is announced the night of the Gala.

To nominate a business, the owner must demonstrate excellence in their industry, innovative practices, civic involvement and leadership. Qualified businesses will be submitted to the Chamber membership for consideration. By popular vote of the Hancock Chamber membership, one winner will be selected from each area (Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Diamondhead, Kiln/Hancock County) and recognized during the Gala.

Tickets for the gala are traditionally sold out with over 500 people attending. To reserve seats to the event or sponsor a table, go to hancockchamber.org.

This event is presented by the Hancock Chamber of Commerce and the Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission and is sponsored by Coast Electric Power Association, Hancock Bank, Hollywood Casino – Gulf Coast, Mississippi Power Company, and Silver Slipper Casino Hotel.

of toes or legs because they were too weak to give up alcohol. For the same reason, high-caloric foods like fatty meats are also a no-no, a certain undoing for diabetics.

"How is your sugar level today?" is a frequent question among folks who are borderline diabetics or who are slipping deeper and deeper into the steely grasp of diabetes. Sugar and syrups taste so good that they are their own best apologists for consuming them in myriad drinks and desserts. They make their own case, wasting weak-willed borderline and flat-out diabetics who simply don't resist them.

Predictably, scientists and engineers are now imitating nature in using the energy-dense power of sugar in the form of glucose as the energy to produce electricity for biobatteries. Circulating in plants, animals and humans as blood sugar, glucose supplies the energy needs of all living things. While nature figured out eons ago how to harness this energy efficiently, only recently are scientists learning how to unleash the energy-dense power of sugar to produce electricity.

Since plants have this magical power substance, we can extract it and use it for such things as biobatteries in spite of the detractors of this venture. Although lithium-ion (L-ion) batteries have been king of the hill for some years, their reign is threatened by a sugar-powered fuel cell that has an energy storage density of 596 amp-hours per kilo – or one "order of magnitude" higher than Lithium-ion batteries. Refillable with a solution of maltodextrin, this fuel's only by-products are electricity and water. Chief researcher at Virginia Tech, Y.H. Percival Zhang, says the technology could be commercialized in as soon as three years. This type of biobattery may have uses in pacemakers, etc. in our human body, since we have glucose in our blood.

Brazil has a sustainable biofuels economy with sugarcane-derived ethanol that has an energy balance 7 times greater than corn-based ethanol. Together with the fact that only 50% of corn (the starch) can be converted into sugar, then ethanol, the U.S. product is $80 more expensive per cubic meter. All Brazilian cars run on 25%-100% ethanol. Should we add sugarcane to our feedstock for making ethanol?

days and nights that the Carnival lasted.

All things must have an end. With the departure of the "soljers" we gradually relapsed to our accustomed dullness. The result of all this left us in possession of some officers appointed from the fact of our having a fortification in our midst. The name of this stronghold was Fort Henry. The favored gentlemen so signally honored were – Sam'l Heaslip, Esq., who was appointed Brigadier General; John Lang, Esq., who by unheard of efforts, had raised a company of eleven men, including its officers, so, for this achievement, Lang was made Captain; and Charles Rhodes, another member of our club, who owned a general store in town, was commissioned Quartermaster.

The site of the Fort and the grounds made an ideal spot for a military encampment, affording the advantages of transportation, both by rail and by water, salt bathing for the soldiers, ample grounds for drilling and camping, and an abundance of pure artesian water easily obtainable. The fort construction was of clay re-enforced with heavy timbers.

The first company of State Militia to occupy Fort Henry was the Scranton (now Pascagoula) Rifles, having arrived during the Summer of 1886.

Before they broke camp, Mississippi Governor Robert Lowry ordered the Scranton Rifles to fire a military salute over the grave of Col. J.J. Thornton whose burial site was located in Live Oak Cemetery. Dr. Thornton had led the Sixth Mississippi Regiment through many bloody encounters during the Civil War.

After several years of false starts, the Fort went into disuse. In 1908, the cannons were destroyed with explosives and were sold for scrap. Some of the cannon mounts remained at the fort site as late as the mid-1940s. Even in its neglected condition, it remained for many years as a point of interest to tourists.

It was a glorious time for Pass Christian while it lasted and well worth the money.

Authors & Characters @ Your Library: Historical incarnation of state's conservationist

SEA COAST ECHO

An historical incarnation of Mississippi's most important conservationist, Fannye A. Cook, is the featured Author's & Characters @ Your Library program on Tuesday, May 8, at 11:45 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library. Miss Cook's portrayal is compliments of historical impersonator and wildlife biologist, Dr. Cathy Shropshire.

The live performance will be followed by a book signing of Cook's biography, "Fannye Cook: Mississippi's Pioneering Conservationist." Cook's biography was written by Dorothy Shawhan who died shortly before the book was final. The biography was completed by co-editors, Marion Barnwell and Libby Hartfield, who will speak and sign books after the performance. Bay Books will have books available for purchase. All three guests will be on hand to answer questions about Cook.

The biography includes photographs of Cook and some of her Mississippi Gulf Coast artists and collectors who worked for her under her Works Progress Administration project. Cook frequented the Gulf Coast to collect specimens and conduct research, and she frequently led groups of all ages on guided nature walks and field trips.

Cook is considered by those who know her story to be the single most significant, and until recently overlooked, conservationist in Mississippi history. As an accomplished scientist, she catalogued Mississippi's flora and fauna and spent her life researching and teaching. As a political change-agent, she was the force behind creating the Game and Fish Commission (now the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks); she founded the Mississippi Museum of Natural Science; she successfully pushed to create a system of wildlife management areas and to protect the Gulf of Mexico's barrier islands.

Lunch is available for $10, payable to The Library Foundation at the door. Reservations are required, and copies of the book will be available for purchase. To make your reservation, call 467-5282.

pate. But antifishing sentiment is growing among those who don't fish. About 25 percent of people worldwide question the morality of recreational fishing as a sport, and some European countries have significantly restricted it. Fisheries conservation and management need angler support to counteract the growing number of antifishing lobbyists and programs.

As the percentage of people who fish declines, the political, social and financial support provided by anglers will also decline. Therefore, it is critical that we bring new people to the sport of fishing. All children need is a loving hand to take them out to the water's edge and teach them to use rods and reels. Take a child fishing today; the future of fisheries management and conservation may very well depend on it!

Lawsuit

Marquar and his business."

The suit alleges that Falgout "intentionally" interfered with the business relationships of Marquar and L&L by contacting clients and urging them to fire L&L and file complaints with the city's building department.

The suit further alleges that Marquar and L&L were slandered, claiming that Falgout published "numerous emails and Facebook posts falsely stating that there are numerous complaints against Marquar and L&L filed with the city building department."

The suit states that "no complaints have been filed."

The suit also mentions the well-reported squabble between Marquar and Falgout, during which Marquar accused the former councilman of assault.

On Jan. 23, 2017, the suit claims, Falgout flagged Marquar down and directed him to get out of his truck, then assaulted Marquar by shouting threats and getting "nose to nose" with him.

"Mr. Marquar defended himself by pushing Mr. Falgout away from him, causing Falgout to fall down," according to the suit. "Mr. Marquar then walked away from the incident and left the scene."

The suit further alleges that Falgout has "repeatedly misused his public position, acting under the color of law, to cause significant and irreparable damage" to Marquar and L&L Construction Services, LLC.

"In doing so, he acted under the color of law to purposefully erect barriers to interstate trade with the intention of depriving Marquar and L&L of the rights, privileges, or immunities secured to them by the Constitution of the United States of America and its many laws regulating interstate e-commerce."

The suit claims that the city and the mayor were notified that Falgout was "interfering" with Marquar's and L&L's business, and yet "wholly failed to take any action."

Marquar is seeking a trial and a total of $4.5 million in compensatory and punitive damages, plus attorney's fees, plus "any other further relief" the judge may deem appropriate. A complaint tells only the plaintiffs' side in a dispute.

Falgout has denied Marquar's claims and said Tuesday he looks forward to his day in court.

"As a former Bay St. Louis City councilman, I welcomed any and all calls I received from my constituents, being good, bad or indifferent," Falgout said. "I had a legal obligation to research, inspect and notify all parties when called or notified of a concern regarding a constituent."

"Each and every notification was handled individually, both with conversation with my constituent and other research needed. After years of researching, observing and inspecting, I welcome the opportunity to not only represent myself, the city of Bay St. Louis, but most importantly, my former constituents, that notified and asked for my assistance regarding this matter."

Mayor Mike Favre said Tuesday that the city has still not received official notice that the suit has been filed, deferring comment on the matter.

tries and more jobs for the American people. This $188 million will be dedicated to coastal restoration and other projects important to many communities in the Gulf."

Mississippi Gov. Phil Bryant said in the release that he is "grateful" to everyone who made this disbursement a reality.

"Mississippi is working hard to maximize our energy resources to help lower costs for the consumer and make America energy-independent," Bryant said in the release. "This funding will help initiate projects to improve our water quality and enhance the blue economy of our Gulf Coast."

Rep. Steven Palazzo echoed Bryant's sentiments.

"The Phase II funding of GOMESA will be directly used for much-needed coastal conservation, restoration, and hurricane protection," Palazzo said in the release. "In 2020, we can look forward to an even larger increase in funding that we were able to secure as part of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act bill due, in no small part, to the hard work and support of Secretary Zinke, President Trump's administration, and our leadership in the House."

Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Blaine LaFontaine said the board has already been looking at long term plans for the funds.

"The public plans or criteria for projects has been slow to come about," he said. "But we are hoping to use the funds for dredging, Buccaneer Park, harbor expansions and connecting the pedestrian pathway on the beachfront."

LaFontaine said the county will receive about $1 million "any day now."

He added that - to his understanding - the county will receive funds every year for the next nine years.

LaFontaine said the board will discuss projects in the next several months before making a decision on the first project, which will be included in the 2018-2019 Fiscal Year budget.

Ole Miss, MSU & USM all have four drafted

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The NFL Draft found its way into Mississippi this past weekend with several of the teams drafting in-state stars.

The University of Mississippi, Mississippi State University and the University of Southern Mississippi all had four players drafted over the course of the seven round draft that was held in Dallas.

Ole Miss had the first Mississippian taken off the board when Rebels DT Breeland Spears was taken by the Kansas City Chiefs in the second round with the 46th overall pick.

Spears, a 6'3" 283-lb defensive tackle, was a three-year starter and earned second team All-SEC in 2017. He tallied 67 tackles with eight tackles for loss and seven sacks.

The Chiefs traded up within the round to acquire Spears.

The next Mississippian off the board was Mississippi State's Martinas Rankin who went to the Houston Texans in the third round with the 60th overall pick.

Rankin, a 6'4" 308-lb left tackle, was named a first team All-SEC pick despite starting just nine games due to a high ankle sprain. He was the #1-rated junior college offensive tackle coming out of MGCCC three years ago.

Also in the third round, USM's Tarvarius Moore came off the board with the 95th overall pick by the San Francisco 49ers.

Moore, a 6'2" 190-lb safety, earned honorable mention All-Conference USA after recording 87 tackles and three interceptions with 10 pass breakups.

In the fourth round, the Atlanta Falcons selected USM RB Ito Smith with the 126th overall selection. He was named first team All-Conference in 2017 after rushing for 1,415 yards and 13 scores.

Marquis Haynes of Ole Miss was also selected in the fourth round by the LA Rams with the 136th overall pick.

Athlete with Bay ties making waves in Mid-East conference

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

A multi-sport athlete with Bay St. Louis ties is making waves in the collegiate world.

Dominique Cleggett, a senior member of the Howard University Men's & Women's Track and Field Team and the granddaughter of long-time Bay St. Louis resident Sylvia Charles, last week won the College Women's Long Jump title on day one of the historic Penn Relays.

Cleggett topped 49 other student-athletes in the event, leaping a personal best 6.19 meters and moving into the Top 35 performers in all of Division I.

"We are so proud of her," Charles said Monday.

Cleggett also earned Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference Co-Field Performer of the Week on March 21 after her performance at the 49er Classic in Charlotte, N.C., qualifying for the championships in May.

She is also a two-time Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference champ with the Howard Women's Volleyball program, where she was dubbed "Dom the Bomb."

Former BHS standout named Player of the Year in Hawaii

SEA COAST ECHO

Former Bay High School basketball stand-out Tolu Smith was recently named the Hawaii All-State Basketball Player of the Year.

Smith, a 6'10 senior, is the son of Shannel and Galen Smith, Sr. and the grandson of Marilyn Smith of Bay St. Louis, transferred to Kahuku High School last fall.

Though he had just one season in Hawaii, Smith made the most of it. He averaged 21.2 points, 10.3 rebounds and 1.6 blocks per game, leading the Kahuku Red Raiders to the Division I state finals and earning Honolulu Star-Advertiser Player of the Year honors.

Smith's coach at Kahuku, Brandyn Akana, told the Honolulu paper that "the sky's the limit" for the young player's future. "He has come a long way and I think it's not over and he'll get better and better at the next level. ... People gotta see this kid play."

He has already signed a letter of intent to play basketball for Western Kentucky University next fall.

Tolu's brother, Galen Smith Jr., plays basketball for Xavier University in New Orleans. His mother, Shannel, was college hoops star at South Alabama.

NEWSPAPERS DELIVER ACROSS

Ever hear the phrase "print is dead"? Well if you check with almost 170 million Americans, they'd tell you that nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, a recent Nielsen Scarborough study found that more than 169 million adults in the U.S. read a newspaper in a month—whether it be in print, on a website or via mobile app. In total, newspapers reach 69% of the U.S. population in a given month.

Newspapers remain largely a print medium, but the dramatic growth in digital media in recent years has compelled newspaper publishers to re-think their distribution models and become multi-platform content providers. According to the recent study, 81% of monthly newspaper readers engage with the print product, with 51% reading print exclusively. The remaining 49% reads a newspaper on at least one digital platform, with 30% reading both digital and print.

Traditionally, newspaper audiences have been more educated, affluent and older than non-newspaper readers. As digital media have gained in prominence, newspapers have attracted younger readers. Newspaper readers are still educated and affluent, but their ages are more reflective of the general population than they have been in the past. For example, 13% of the U.S. population is 70 or older, and this age group now accounts for 15% of the total monthly newspaper audience.

Compared to previous decades, younger readers now account for a greater percentage of newspaper readers. Notably, Millennials 21-34 make up 25% of the U.S. population and now represent 24% of the total monthly newspaper readership. Based on the shift in age of the newspaper reader, it's clear that the newspaper industry's adoption of digital distribution has allowed it to reach adults of all ages.

Despite their growing appeal among younger readers through digital channels, newspapers still maintain an educated and affluent audience. Readers, whether print or digital, are still more likely to be college graduates and have annual household incomes over $100,000 than non-readers. And by broadening their distribution to digital channels, many newspapers have attracted digital readers, who represent an even more affluent and educated segment of readers. In fact, digital newspaper paper readers are 49% more likely than the general adult population to be a college graduate and 43% more likely to have household incomes over $100,000.

Local Student HONORED FOR EXCEPTIONAL ACADEMIC SUCCESS

SEA COAST ECHO

DURHAM, NC — Fulton Ascherl, a seventh-grade student from St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis, is among the students being honored by the Duke University Talent Identification Program (Duke TIP) for their exceptional scores on the ACT or SAT. Fulton will be recognized at a ceremony at The University of Southern Mississippi on June 2, 2018.

Duke TIP's 7th Grade Talent Search identifies students across the United States who have scored at or above the 95th percentile on a grade-level standardized test. As part of the program, these academically talented students take above-level college-entrance exams to learn more about their abilities. Duke TIP then hosts annual recognition ceremonies to honor the seventh graders who scored the highest on these ACT or SAT exams.

"We are extremely proud to recognize our remarkably talented students who have demonstrated key aspects of their academic potential by achieving scores on the ACT or SAT commensurate with half of all college-bound high school seniors," says Shawna Young, Executive Director of Duke TIP. "As an alum of our 7th Grade Talent Search, I still remember how it felt to be recognized by Duke and TIP in seventh grade, as well as my excitement and anxiety at taking the SAT at such a young age. As an organization, we cherish the opportunity to celebrate each of our ceremonies honorees for such an outstanding accomplishment."

Working with host academic institutions, Duke TIP sponsors thirty-six ceremonies in sixteen states throughout April, May, and June. Speakers include university administrators and professors from the host institutions, state and government officials, and accomplished former Duke TIP students. For a complete list of ceremony locations, dates, and times, please see Duke TIP's State Ceremony schedule. LOCAL ARTIST TAKES YOU ON A BOLD JOURNEY OF "One Universe"

SEA COAST ECHO

An artist's inspiration comes from a variety of places yet it may take root in the recesses of the mind as a visual palette, often subconsciously, before any medium touches a canvas.

For Scharonne Herrington, his connection to music triggers a concept of bold colors so loud his paintings become a surreal experience for the viewer. This musical influence is so strong for Herrington that it can actually change the tone of the work if the rhythm changes exponentially. Herrington uses acrylic paint and an airbrush to take the viewer on a journey of bold color that flows with a certain amount of transparency. This journey might begin in an ocean environment drawing you along a bold path but it ends in outer space, with a powerful pull of planetary realism of rings and stars or you may be in a magical garden of vines moving along a path of piano keys on your way to the outer limits of the Universe. Each of Herrington's large works showcases an exciting visionary experience, according to Herrington, "of One Universe".

Herrington began his artistic experience at Bay High taking high school art. He remembers his first art experiences were with pen and pencils, but in 1995 his art class took on a huge mural of the Coke sign that is painted on the backside of the 220 Gallery, which is still on the building almost 25 years later. Yet it was Joseph Pearson, an airbrush artist, which brought Herrington where he is today. Pearson taught Herrington the fundamentals of airbrush art and after much practice Herrington has developed his portfolio of a bold, bigger than life body of work.

When Herrington isn't painting he enjoys video games and riding his bike in the Waveland area. This exhibit is sponsored by The Arts, Hancock County, in conjunction with Waveland City Hall and it is part of The Arts on Coleman Avenue. Herrington's paintings will hang until the end of May.

Krewe of Olympus hosts annual toga party

SEA COAST ECHO

Haven't been to a toga party since college?? You missed a great one! The Krewe of Olympus held this annual event on Saturday, March 24, at the Diamondhead Country Club. The evening started with cocktails and dancing to the music of Johnny Fung's band, who even dressed for the occasion. The club staff once again provided an excellent dinner-capprese salad, herbed chicken breast with champagne sauce, vegetable medley with pasta, and for dessert, vanilla ice cream with salted caramel sauce and an Italian cookie. Sumptuous, as usual!

Johnny's group played a great variety of dance music for the rest of the evening, much to the pleasure of all.

A beautiful photo op was presented by Betty Maxwell, president of the Krewe and decorator extraordinaire, featuring the Krewe banner banked by white columns of sparkling white lights. Many took advantage of this unusual opportunity to capture their toga moment! The tables were beautifully simple, with Greek columns filled with bright red azaleas and tiny white lights.

The royalty table also featured Greek columns but these were decorated with trailing vines of ivy, white lights, and crowns of gold and silver.

Two stone lions sat atop columns before the stage. A lovely evening

The Krewe of Olympus is a small one by design, insuring that members get to know everyone and there is ample room to move about the ballroom. We would love to have you join us-contact Krewe President Betty Maxwell at 255-1172 for more membership information.

The Legacy of Community: A Concert to Benefit St. Stephen's Cultural Community Center

SEA COAST ECHO

Join world-renowned classical guitarist, John De Chiaro, on Sunday, May 6, at 2 p.m. at Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Pass Christian, for an afternoon of beautiful music benefiting the St. Stephen's Cultural Community Center in DeLisle, Mississippi.

The American classical guitarist, Giovanni De Chiaro, made his debut in 1976 in a Carnegie Hall performance that brought a rave notice from the New York Times and launched a career of distinction. He has presented seven solo recitals at Carnegie Hall and more recently performed there with the Mississippi Guitar Quartet, an ensemble he established. He has concertized throughout the United States, South America, Canada, Europe, and Mexico and has performed for Pope John Paul II at the Vatican in Rome. He also was invited to perform for President and Mrs. Bill Clinton for two special Christmas functions at the White House.

Mr. De Chiaro has recorded his guitar transcriptions of the complete works of Scott Joplin, two Christmas CDs, a Broadway Collection and a Wedding Album. His latest release entitled "Melodie d'Amore" features his guitar transcriptions of familiar piano masterpieces from the Romantic Period.

Mr. De Chiaro has recorded two nationally televised programs for PBS which have won top honors at several national and international film festivals. He was also featured on the National Public Radio program "All Things Considered" discussing and performing several of his Scott Joplin transcriptions. His recordings are regularly featured on the NPR programs "Classical Guitar Alive" and "Performance Today".

His most recent recording features De Chiaro with the London Symphony Orchestra performing the Concierto De Chiaro, an original guitar concerto composed especially for him by conductor and composer Kermit Poling.??? Mr. De Chiaro will perform portions of this concerto during the St. Stephen's benefit concert. CD's will be available after the concert, and Mr. De Chiaro has promised to donate his portion of the proceeds to the St. Stephen's Cultural Community Center.

Until it was decommissioned in 2011 and became part of Most Holy Trinity Parish in Pass Christian, St. Stephen's Catholic Church was an essential part of life in the DeLisle community for more than 140 years. Established in 1872 by missionaries from Mobile and New Orleans, this parish served all parishioners until it was segregated in the 1920's. During this time St. Stephen's Mission Church and School was established to serve the black community. Following the destruction of Our Lady of Good Hope Church by Hurricane Camille in 1969, St. Stephen's, once again, opened its doors to Catholics of all colors, thereby becoming the first church to be desegregated in the state of Mississippi.

Having fallen into disrepair during the last 7 years, the citizens of DeLisle rallied to save this vital piece of Mississippi history. With visions of a community center to host cultural events, educational and work-force training opportunities, an evacuation shelter, and a history museum, the St. Stephen's Cultural Community Center non-profit was formed to restore the existing church structure and return it to its position as the center of DeLisle community life.

The Legacy of Community benefit concert was envisioned by Father Patrick Mockler of Most Holy Trinity as a way to garner interest in and raise funds for this important restoration project. Father Mockler states, "This concert promises both a rare opportunity to see Mr. De Chiaro perform on the Mississippi Coast, as well as, a chance to hear two of the Coast's favorite sopranos, Judith D'Angelo and Deana Landry."

The concert will be followed immediately by a small reception. Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church is located at 9062 Kiln Delisle Road in beautiful Pass Christian, Mississippi. For more information on the Legacy of Community benefit concert or the St. Stephen's Cultural Community Center, contact Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church at (228)255-1294 or via email at admin@mht-catholic.org.

1. any circulating medium of exchange, including coins, paper money, and demand deposits.

You have to spend money to Make money.

This is a common English saying . It means that it's hard to make money in a business without investing some money in supplies, products, advertisement or other business expenses.

Who wants to hear that? Probably no one. The truth hurts.

Owning a business is tough. No one ever said it was easy. In owning a business, your goal is to be recognized and successful. Why put in all of the hard work to be basically "invisible". You see ads that run regularly. These businesses are successful. They're seen weekly whether it be to a flashy logo or an attractive female/male model. The point is that the business is getting noticed. A common phrase heard among salesman and ad representatives is this: "We don't have the money to advertise". Sorry to be blunt, but you probably won't ever have "extra" money if you're unknown. Advertisements in the newspaper can pay big dividends if they are targeted to the right markets and presented in a way that encourages readers to buy.

You need to Know Your Audience. While younger Americans aren't the newspaper readers that their parents and grandparents are, print still offers a way of reaching key demographics. According to a study prepared for the Newspaper Association of America, 65.6 percent of respondents read the newspaper at least once in the past week, and that number rises to 72.6 percent of adults aged 55 and over. Print media is accessed by both genders, with 60.8 percent of each having read a newspaper over the past seven days. If those figures match your target marketing audience, it makes sense to use print to reach them.

Location, Location, Location... Location can't be stressed enough. Newspapers offer the ability to target your ads to better reach a specific customer base. For example, if you're selling sports equipment, advertising on TV during the NFL playoffs is likely cost-prohibitive and may reach many viewers with no intention of buying your wares. A small advertisement in your local sports section has the potential to catch the eye of football fans in your area, getting the local sports fans attention at a fraction of the cost. Make sure your ad is in the right spot in the paper. You're likely to have better luck selling musical instruments in the entertainment section of the paper than in the business or food sections.
